NOTICE.

Ginning days only Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. Liberty, Gin. by E. H. Westbrook.

Messames Bob Robinson, J. D. Causey, and Misses Callie and Carrie Causey of Gloster spent Tuesday with Mrs. Maude Bates and family.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. and George Bradshaw, Miss Leona Beard and D. C. Hughey motored over to Magnolia via McComb and Fernwood Sunday.

Mr. Dudley McDowell of R. 1 was an appreciated caller at our office Wednesday. He never forgets his subscription, seems as if others could do the same.

Our western friends who strived so strenuously for the Agricultural School, and after it was awarded to Liberty got up a petition against the bond issue, "fell down," ignominiously. Istly, the petition was due to be filed by Friday last. It should have contained 10% of tax payers other than polls, but it was filed Monday with only 367 names 36 of whom pay only a poll, where as there are 4095 realty owners; so of course the bonds will be issued. Our friends should move to Liberty and keep up with the records.

Furthermore, grading is being done, and track laying will begin Saturday to the Amite Lumber Co Mill, located on Westbrook place, south Liberty, 40,000 ft. per day, for 12 yrs. 30 odd men now working, and track will be extended to ward Barwick, which will be quite a boon for our towns and their families.

Married—Sunday Oct. 31, 1915

Mr. Wyatt L. Toler to Miss Hazel Pauline Beard. Rev. E. Gardner officiating. Mr. Toler is a prosperous young man of Merwin, while Miss Hazel is one of Liberty's most charming young ladies. The Herald joins in wishing them a long and happy life.

Just Before the Battle Mother.

Just before the battle, mother, I am thinking most of you, While upon the fields we are watching, With our enemy in view.

Comrades brave around me lying Filled with thoughts of home and God;

For well they know that on the morrow Some will sleep beneath the sod.

CHORUS

Farewell, mother, you may never, Press me to your heart again,

But oh! you will not forget me, mother,

If I am numbered with the slain.

Oh! how I long to see you mother,

And the lovin ones at home,

But I can never leave the banner Uptill in honor I can come.

Tell the traitors all around you That the cruel words they know,

In every battle killed a soldier, By the help we give the foe.

Hark! I hear the bugle sounding, It is the signal for the fight,

May God protect us mother, As he ever doth the right.

Hear the battle cry of freedom, How it swells upon the air,

Oh! yes, we will rally around the standard,

Or we will perish nobly there.

A Killing in Amite

Will Stewart, a white man, was killed Monday morning, Nov. 1st, 1915, by James Thompson, a negro, known as Woods, a son of Squire Thompson. From what we can learn, the cow or cows of Stewart had been getting in Thompson's field, and, early on the morning mentioned, the negro met Stewart and Bob Harrell, also white, coming out of the woods form a coon hunt. The negro asked Stewart to keep his stock out of his field, and Stewart is said to have replied that he could not do so unless the fence was kept in good repair. Words ensued and Stewart struck the negro on side of head and shoulder with the ax handle, where upon Thompson jumped back and shot Stewart through the heart, killing him instantly. He then handed his gun to Mr. Herrall, who brought him to town and placed him in jail.

Stewart was a very poor man, leaves a wife and several children, and buried at public expenses. He lived on the Little place, about six miles south of Liberty, came originally from Louisiana, and several years ago served a term on Court Farm for larceny of cat from Mr. Little.

There's No Luck In Success!

"The whole trouble is," complained a young fellow the other day, "opportunity never knocks at my door. If I just only had a chance I wouldn't kick, but luck's all against me."

How often have you heard words just such as these? When Opportunity knocked at that young mans door there was "nobody home."

His ears were deafened by discontent instead of wide open to the voice of ambition. He didn't realize that the rise of sun every day heralded a new opportunity—the opportunity of precious time. He was too busy whining about "luck" too busy fretting because instant success wasn't placed right on his lap. He didn't know that when the one big chance came he would be unprepared because he had not heard Opportunity's persistent whisper: Save yourself, save your money.

When he saw others rise in the ranks he only pointed to them and "See they're lucky."

Young men, do you agree with him? Or are you prepared for the big opportunity? Have you saved your health, your character, your money, to be ready?

Your chance is today.

The men who lead the world in science, in business, in production are the men that mark each minute

And, remember this: They did not reach their goal because chance led them to it or because they were lucky. They fought for it—fought for it every inch of the way. And the greater their fight, the greater was their victory. Every tick of the clock is the clarion of opportunity. Dont wait until it's too late. Take the mufflers of laziness indifference, discontent, from your ears and open them wide to the message: Make this minute count. Jackson News.

Marvin McDaniel Pardoned

Joseph Goldbug, of the United States Public Health Service, has proven his theory that pellegra, a disease that has spread alarmingly during the past few years, is produced by unbalanced diet. Having produced the disease this way Dr. Goldberger is firmly convinced that it can also be cured with a balanced ration.

The Mississippi State Board of Health today officially announced the result of Dr. Goldberger's experiments with a pellagra squad at the Rankin State convici farm.

Twelve prisoners were selected for the experiment, each being promised a pardon in the event they followed strictly the diet prescribed by Dr. Goldberger, which excluded as food milk, fresh, lean meat, eggs, peas and beans.

The experiment began Feb. 15 last, and a diagnosis today shows symptoms suggestive of pellagra.

Four Jackson physicians accompanied Dr. Goldberger to the convict farm and confirmed the diagnosis. The prisoners who have developed the disease will be immediately placed under curative treatment and Dr. Goldberger is confident that they will be restored to normal health within a few weeks.

Governor Brewer today issued pardons to the members of the squad, the twelfth member suffered a general physical breakdown, several months ago and was released. While the eleven convicts are free to leave the penitentiary if they so desire, Governor Brewer strongly urges them to stay for a few weeks longer and be nursed back to health, using a perscribed diet furnished by the state an federal governments.

Dr. Goldberger held a conference with the governor shortly before noon and urge that this course be followed.

The men who risked their lives to establish the truth of the Goldberger theory are E. S. Atkinson, sent from Lincoln county in 1913 to serve seven years for embezzlement; Woodson Atkinson, sent up from Lincoln county in 1912 to serve seven years for embezzlement; Gable Pickering, sent up from Copiah county in 1910 to serve fifteen years for manslaughter; W. H. English, Bolivar county, criminal assault, life term; Guy R. James, Leflore county, murder life; John Marvin McDaniel, Amite county, murder, life; Alex Gamble, Franklin county, murder, life; John Shows, Simpson county, murder life; Ira D. Wray, Sunflower county, bigamy, five years; D. W. Pitts, Tallahatchie county, murder, life; John Brock, Lamar county, murder life.

Full details of the test will be made by the public health service from Washington after Dr. Goldbergers report is received. Dr. Goldberger today declined to be interviewed, except to say thrt he is thoroughly satistide with results.

Today he has been showered with consratulations from members of the medical profession, all of which he has accepted modestly

The pellagra squad was under the direct personal surveillance of Dr. G. A. Wheeler, of the public health service, who remained constantly on duty from the beginning of the test. Dr. Wheeler was unable to even leave long enough to get married, so last May his bride-elect came all the way from Connecticut and they were married in this State.

Throughout the test the matter was kept secret as possible for fear relatives might institute habeas corpus proceedings.
